

BUILDING A STRONG FUTURE

I am pleased to officially announce the grand opening of our new production facility in Hicksville, Defiance County, Ohio, and to extend an invitation for you to attend an Open House event on Saturday, July 23, 2022.

This new plant positions EnviroKure at the center of an ever-growing agricultural biologics market. It also increases our production capacity to support current customers' needs and enables us to welcome many new partners in the Fall 2022 and Spring 2023 planting seasons.

The Ohio plant incorporates our patented next-generation manufacturing technology created through EnviroKure's Research and Development Center in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. As such, we look forward to engaging many more growers with our world-class products that are sustainable, regenerative, and organic.

I am incredibly proud of our employees and partners' hard work and determination to reach this goal, and I'd love for you to meet them in person.

We can't wait to take you for a tour to show off our new facility, so come see us!

Please save the date and make plans to join us in Ohio!
Saturday, July 23, 2022

Joseph Steck, Founder/President
EnviroKure, Incorporated

RSVP is Required to Attend

Call 215-289-9800 or email am.adams@envirokure.com

Website RSVP Form: <https://www.envirokure.com/ohio-openhouse-july23-2022>

